NEW HAVEN BRANCH, WOMANS' BOARD OF MISSIONS,

A Highly Interesting Talk on the North China Missions by Mrs. Beach-Interest-ing Reports by Officers of the Branch. The regular bi-monthly meeting of the New Haven Branch of the Women's Board of Missions was held yesterday afternoon in the Center church chapel. Miss Daggett, the president of the society, was in the chair. Reports were read by the treasurer, corresponding secretary and home secretary. The treasurer's report showed/ that the society has raised in funds, since December, 1894, $3,100. The report of the corresponding secretary gave a very satisfactory account of the work being done in China, Africa and India, also particularly of the work in the mission schools of Spain, where the only education the girls receive is at these schools. The home secretary's report showed that all the missions are stirring and doing splendid work, which is undiminished at all points.

After these reports were read a most interesting talk was given by Mrs.

Harian F. Beach, who has been connected with the North China missions on the work in that section, the diffi-culties met with by the missionaries and the peculiarities of the people. The headquarters of this field of work is on the coast of the Yellow Sea, about one-half day's journey from Pekin. This is the method of describing the length of journeys in China, as it gives one a better idea of the difficuities in traveling than it would to give it in miles, which would be easily passed over in a land of railroads and

There are in all seven stations in this field, including cities, towns and vilbesides some places where reaching is held, but where there are is yet no converts. Miss Andrew, a ssionary, who has been supported in North China by the New Haven so-clety was, so the speaker said, one of the most efficient workers in the field, as she has mastered the language and can better reach the people. Mrs. Beach said that sometimes con-verts are made where they are least expected and spoke of an occasion on which she was traveling from one station to another, a week's journey, and happening to pass a little hamlet on Sunday, she concluded to see if she could, with her limited knowledge of the language, acquaint them with some truths. With much difficulty she collected a crowd of natives and talked to them for some time. From this Ht-tle talk a convert was made, who is now a great help in the work. Mrs. Beach is an interesting talker and the large audience of ladies was much pleased and highly entertained.

THE WONDERFUL IMPROVEMENT ON THE CONSOLIDATED ROAD.

Its Great Progress in the Last Few Years-

Changes What a Boston Man Says. A gentleman who has traveled continously for years over the Consolidated road between New York and Boston, as well as over many of the noted railroad ines of the country, writes to the Journal and Courier as follows:

"Probably there is no railroad in the ountry that has made such important Hartford, popularly known as the Consolidated and New Haven road, and it through lines entirely over its own tracks between New York and Boston. via the popular Shore Line, but in addition thereto being the most important link of the all-rail routes between the

"The writer, who has lived in Boston for the last fifteen years and during that period made at least twenty trips annually to New York, having traveled ver every train between the two cities, has been perhaps as well fitted to ap preciate the marvelous improvements both in train service, equipment and ac-celerated speed, as anyone in New Eng-'Fifteen years ago the entire through train service between New York and Boston consisted of, we think, three day rains and two night trains. through the progressive policy of the New Haven road, one can almost every four in the day, between 9 o'clock in the morning and 5 o'clock in the afternoon take a through express train with but fet drawing room cars, parlor smokers and on many of the trains elegant din ing cars. The fastest train, if we re member correctly, fifteen years ago re quired six and three-quarters hours to perform the journey between the two by any, excepting one of the night trains, in which speed is not desired, is six and a half hours, while there are several making the journey in six hours and in addition to this the famous Ba State Limited, the most sumptuous train n New England, leaves either city dai ly, Sunday excepted, at 10 o'clock in the morning, running through in five hours, not only the fastest train ever operated in New England, but unsurpassed for the distance by any regular passenger train in the world. "But not only in regard to improved facilities has this road more than satisfied the demands of the public. It has improved its roadbed, straightened its tracks, and, in fact, stands to-day, in our judgment, a perfect road in every sense of the word, and rather than finding the journey between the two cities tedious, the writer looks forward with pleasure to his constant traveling over

A TRIBUTE To the Hon. N. D. Sperry From a Rallway

The Railway Mail Service Bugle of Chicago, date of February 7, contains a handsome and accurate picture of The class day committee was elected Hon, N. D. Sperry and in a column article accompanying says:

HON. N. D. SPERRY, EX-POSTMASTER. "Members of the M. B. A. who attended the convention at the Thousand Islands, N. Y., in 1891, doubtless remember the Hon. N. D. Sperry, postmaster at New Haven, Conn. We are pleased to announce that Mr. Sperry has been elected a member of the next house of representatives in congress Mr. Sperry was postmaster at New Haven for twenty-eight years. Clark E. Carr of Galesburgh, Ill., and Mr. Sperry were the only two post masters of the first class, in the United States, who held their positions for twenty-four consecutive years. Mr. Sperry's long experience in postoffice affairs gives him pre-eminent qualifications for a position on the next house postoffice committee. He is known to be a staunch friend of civil service law and an enthusiastic advocate for the betterment of the rallway mail service. Should the congressman be appointed on the postoffice committee, the railway mail service employes car count on him as one of their foremos champions in matters of legislation af-fecting their interests. The Bugle trusts that the next speaker will utilize Mr Sperry's long experience and give the people the benefit by appointing him on the house postoffice committee. In connection with this sketch we reproduce from the October, 1891, files of the Bugle the following extract from Mr. Sperry's address before the M. B. A. convention at the Thousand Islands N. Y., September, 1891."
